CIELAP's major program areas:

Sustainable Policy Solutions Program –

This program will address policies, trends and solutions in such areas as hazardous waste, green power, food and biotechnology, air and water quality.

Governance for Sustainability Program –

This program will address how to create a more sustainable society by analyzing governance mechanisms both domestically and internationally to ensure environmental protection and sustainability.

Outreach Program – This program builds on initiatives such as our Citizens' Guides, poster maps, website and curricula for teachers to create better informed and more active citizens.

Youth Leadership Program – CIELAP is a launching pad for many young people who may continue their professional careers in the environmental field. This program will encourage youth and student interns, who have received formative training at CIELAP, to take on the challenge of building a more sustainable society.

Our model for successful change is based on in-depth research, consultation and the circulation of research results to the wider public in an accurate and timely way through publications, conferences, workshops and the media.

THE DECISIONS WE MAKE TODAY will shape the world for generations to come. That means we have to ask ourselves will the choices that we are making be sustainable in the long term? Already, when we see the impacts of climate change or our legacy of pollution of air, water and soil, we are reminded of the extent to which we shape the environment, not just for ourselves, but for all life on Earth.

FOR OVER 30 YEARS, the Canadian Institute for Environmental Law and Policy (CIELAP) has been researching and putting forward policy solutions to address some of these environmental problems. We have advanced policy solutions in the areas of biotechnology and biodiversity, climate change, hazardous waste and water protection, among others.

For more information about our work, current programs and research, please visit our website at www.cielap.org, email us at cielap@cielap.org or call us at (416) 923-3529.

CIELAP IS DEDICATED TO THE IDEA that we can – and must – make better decisions. Our vision is of a world in which basic human rights include a safe and healthy environment. We believe that respect for and preservation of nature's integrity and environment will help us achieve this vision.

AS A NON-PROFIT ENVIRONMENTAL research organization, we are focused on building the foundations of a more sustainable society. CIELAP's mission is to provide leadership in the research and development of environmental law and policy that promotes the public interest and sustainability. We do this by examining the environmental, social and economic impacts of current policies, laws and practices and by researching, formulating and communicating more sustainable alternatives. We also reach out to the community through programs such as our Citizens' Guides, poster maps of Canada and our website, which help people to understand environmental issues and to take actions to create healthier communities.

THE IMPACTS OF POLICIES, laws and our actions upon our environment are not abstract. We have seen all too well in Canada and around the world what happens when environmental policies and laws are ineffective or not enforced and when people ignore the environmental consequences of their actions. We know that we cannot create sustainable communities without changing the policy and legal framework that shapes and guides us.

WE HAVE REACHED A CRITICAL CROSSROAD. We are destroying the Earth that sustains us and all life. At CIELAP, we are seizing the opportunity to take the more sustainable path, one that will result in a broad range of improvements from developing sustainable energy systems to better protecting our air, water and food supplies. Our work reaches across Canada and to other parts of the world, joining us to a larger community working together to build a greener and healthier future for our planet.
